WHO WE ARE

Since 1971, the National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC) has been dedicated to supporting America's Community Health Centers and the millions of people they serve across the country.

NACHC is the leading advocacy organization representing the nation's community-based health center programs and the people they serve.

We work with chartered State and Regional Primary Care Associations (PCAs), Health Center Controlled Networks (HCCNs) and other public and private partners to fulfill its mission.

Nearly 1,400 community health centers in approximately 15,000 delivery sites are in areas where care is needed but scarce. They serve 31.5 million patients with comprehensive, high quality, affordable and accessible health care, while generating $85 billion in total economic activity in their local communities.
