Community Centers Care for Kids

Our partners at Sesame Street in Communities have a new video about how Community Health Centers serve kids! Every year, health centers care for 9 million children a year through childhood wellness visits, critical screenings and immunizations, behavioral and preventive services, and more.

The video is free for health centers to use. Email communications@nachc.org to request the video.

Parents –

Watch the video with your child. Ask these questions about their visit to the health center or Pediatrician:

1. How did you feel about going to see the Doctor?
2. Did you like meeting the nurses and the doctors?
3. What did you like? What wasn't so good?
4. What did you see while you were there?
5. What did you learn while you were there?
6. Did you get anything at the Doctor's office? What was it? Did you like it?
7. How do you feel about going to visit the Doctor again?

This video is being promoted by CCI Health Services an FQHC in MD –might be a good partner org to try out phase 2!

I can envision Sesame Street producing a new video on parents getting educated/coached by providers on early brain and language development and the importance of talking/reading with children to develop literacy –we actually don't have a resource like that yet! Could be a series based on developmental stages. Also, I think I'm discovering that although Sesame Tree is supporting both health and literacy, they haven't quite made the connection that health care providers can support literacy – TWMB would be an amazing new innovation for them to consider.
